The Economist Magazine notes the story of the law firm of McDermott Will & Emery, LLP, that has been instrumental in this litigation. I had a similar experience about 15 years ago when the firm was working on a case for a member firm (close friend) on who was one of the more spectacular bankruptcies of that era. As I recall, McDermott was paid (by the bankrupt, of course) to turn its legal brain-power to salivating on the potential recovery and payment potentials. That client wound up paying McDermott half a million dollars for the work product and McDermott promptly used that money on an all-expenses paid trip to the Bahamas. As The Economist notes, with this decision in this case, "while the banks that originally received TARP funds can expect to get most of their money back, the firm that helped to defend them can expect a very nice return as well." 570a42141b
