Field of the Invention This invention relates generally to systems for interconnecting a data bus and an information carrier, such as a disk drive or a magnetic tape drive, with a data bus controller, and more particularly to such a system having a method for minimizing bus capacitance which is rapidly switching between a master mode and a slave mode. 2. Description of the Related Art Modern computer systems employ a common data bus to interconnect a data bus controller, such as a microprocessor or a dual port memory, and a data storage device, such as a disk drive or a magnetic tape drive, a data storage controller, such as a microprocessor or dual ported memory, or both. The connection between the data storage device and the data bus is generally referred to as a data link. A data storage device is usually only capable of being either a master or a slave at any given time, but need not be operating at that time. When the data storage device is capable of operating as a master, it is also usually capable of My connection is as follows:.A retailer said Sunday that new refrigerators started arriving in the U.S. after President Donald Trump's administration imposed tariffs on steel and aluminum imports. "The import tariffs on steel and aluminum have been implemented, which will hurt the domestic steel industry and its related businesses," said Eddy Lawrence, managing director at Intertek Testing Services in Vancouver, Canada. "We are not seeing much movement in the market at the moment. We are still waiting for it to take off." MORE: House GOP leaders try to end Trump tariffs The company said it has received new refrigerator shipments from China. Other companies said they have imported refrigerators from China. "We're still seeing the majority of supply come from China," said Lawrence. "There's no change." "The majority of our supply chain is still China and the rest of the world," said John Santomassino, executive vice president of the Alliance for American Manufacturing, which represents manufacturers on trade issues. "We're not seeing any evidence of it changing in the market." "Customers are using [the tariffs] as an excuse to delay purchases and inventory purchases," he said. Santomassino said his members are telling him that the tariffs are costing them $10 per ton of steel they buy. "The cost of the steel in the U.S. has not changed. The cost of exporting the steel to China has gone up," he said. "Customers are telling us that the tariffs aren't really going to have much of an effect in the long term." Trump imposed a 25 percent tariff on steel imports and a 10 percent tariff on aluminum imports last Thursday. The European Union imposed retaliatory tariffs on Thursday, along with Mexico. The White House has said that the tariffs will help boost the
